Letter from the Director...

In 2018, 18,884 cases of domestic violence came to the attention of statewide law enforcement agencies. These same agencies reported that there was an average of 1.6 children present at one-quarter of the reported domestic violence cases. Put simply, approximately 7,850 children witnessed violence in New Mexico families in 2018, and this is just the number known to law enforcement.

Service providers reported that children were present at one out of every three domestic violence incidents in 2018, and 77% of them were under the age of twelve. A New Mexico study of adult victims of domestic violence in 2012, revealed that children who witness abuse are four times more likely to experience child abuse, than children who do not witness abuse. It further found that most (62%) abused children experienced multiple types of abuse, most typically at the hands of a family member (84%); and those abused as children have poorer health outcomes. Survivors abused as children compared to those not abused were six times more likely to be abused as an adult, four times more likely respectively, to be told they have a mental illness and attempt suicide, and three times more likely respectively, to think about suicide and be told they have a substance abuse problem.

The children served by statewide service providers (2,401) represent a small fraction of the number present at the scene of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement; and an even smaller fraction of the many children that witness family violence throughout our state who come to the attention of no one. With so much at stake, it is imperative that greater effort be made (protocols for coordinated community response and systems in place) to better identify children that witness child abuse and ensure participation in appropriate counseling services for assessment and treatment.

As is customary, this report presents a discussion of the Central Repository domestic violence data from statewide law enforcement agencies, service provider agencies, and district and magistrate courts, along with the implications of the findings. Further, it includes an analysis of 16 important domestic violence variables for each individual county, so that you can access important domestic violence trends for any county at a glance.

On behalf of myself and the Office of Injury Prevention, we thank you for doing your best to identify children at risk and provide the means for them to obtain the help they need to avoid the devastating long-term consequences of untreated trauma.

Sincerely,

Betty Caponera, Ph.D.
Director

Domestic Violence in New Mexico 2018 Highlights

Betty Caponera, Ph.D.
July 2019

Funded by the State of New Mexico, Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention

I. INTRODUCTION

Data sources for this report include aggregate domestic violence data from statewide law enforcement and service provider agencies and individual data from district and magistrate courts provided by the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC). All data were submitted to the New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository for calendar year 2018. Additionally, findings and implications from the Adult Survivor Database (ASD) (referenced in appendix A), the Albuquerque SANE Collaborative Domestic Violence data, the National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey (NISVS), 2010 Summary, and the 2010-2012 NISVS State Report are included to inform domestic violence prevention and system response.

II. SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

A. Domestic And Intimate Partner Violence Prevalence

In 2018, there were 18,884 domestic violence incidents reported to statewide law enforcement agencies, a 2% decrease from that reported in 2017 (19,234).

Nationally, the National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey (NISVS) found that 1 in 4 women in the U.S. has experienced severe physical violence by an intimate partner in her lifetime, and 1 in 3 experienced being pushed, slapped or shoved by an intimate partner. Similarly, the NISVS found that 1 in 7 men in the U.S. has experienced severe physical violence by an intimate partner in his lifetime, and 1 in 4 has been slapped, pushed or shoved by an intimate partner. (Black, Basile, et al, [NISVS] 2011).

Nationally, in the 12-month period prior to the NISVS, 4.5% of men were victims of intimate partner physical violence, 2.0% victims of severe physical violence. Similarly, the NISVS reported that 3.6% of women were victims of intimate partner physical violence, 2.7% victims of severe physical violence.

B. Stalking Prevalence

In 2018, statewide law enforcement agencies identified 1,303 victims of harassment and 168 stalking victims. There were 312 new harassment cases filed in statewide District and Magistrate Courts. There were 435 new stalking and aggravated stalking cases filed in statewide district and magistrate courts. Stalking continues to be grossly undocumented by law enforcement as all other sources of data show considerable stalking prevalence nationally and in the New Mexico population.

Nationally, in 2010, the NISVS found that 1 in 6 (15.8%) women and 1 in 19 (5.3%) men have experienced stalking in their lifetime, compared to 19.0% of women and 6.1% of men in New Mexico who have experienced stalking in their lifetime.

Nationally in the 12-month period preceding the NISVS State Report, 4.2% of adult women and 1.9% of adult men were victims of stalking. There is not a statistically reliable 12-month estimate for women and men in New Mexico. However, if we used the national annual rate to estimate the number of women stalking victims in New Mexico in 2012, it would mean that there were an estimated 33,610 women stalking victims that year (800,247 women [18 and over] x 4.2%). It is interesting to note that statewide law enforcement agencies in 2012 reported a total of 68 stalking cases, regardless of gender.

C. Victim Demographics

Approximately three-quarters (70%) of the domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were female. Ninety-two percent of the adult-victims served by domestic violence service providers were female.

New Mexico victims of domestic violence, as reported by law enforcement, were predominantly 19-45 years old (63%). Black survivors (5%) and Native American survivors (15%) are represented significantly more among victims than their representation in the state population (1.8% and 8.8%, respectively). Similarly, adult victims, as reported by domestic violence service providers, were predominantly 22-40 years old (61%) and Hispanic (51%).

D. Suspect Demographics

Suspects, as reported by law enforcement, were predominantly male (72%), Hispanic (52%), and 19-45 years of age (77%). Offenders, as reported by domestic violence service providers, were predominantly male (82%), Hispanic (48%) and 22-40 years of age (63%).

Nationally, the National Crime Victimization Survey (NCVS) found that 95.7% of female victims of non-fatal intimate partner violence were victimized by a male, 3.1% were victimized by a female, and 1.2% victimized by both a male and female. (Catalano, S. Intimate Partner Violence in the United States, BJS, 2007).

E. Children Victim-Witnesses

Of 15,334 law enforcement reports that documented the number of incidents with children present at the scene, there were 4,040 (26%) incidents where at least one child was present.

There were a total of 6,657 total children present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement, and two-thirds (66%) of the children who witnessed these incidents were not yet adolescents (12 years and under).

There were 4,254 domestic violence service provider reports that identified 1,417 (33%) domestic violence incidents where children were present at the scene, or at least one child witness for every three incidents. Over three-quarters (77%) of children victim-witnesses served are under age 12.

Nationally, the NCVS found children were residents in the household of an average 38% of incidents each year of intimate partner violence involving female victims and an average 21% of incidents involving male victims. (Catalano, 2007).

In New Mexico, 26% of children victim-witnesses, as reported by domestic violence service providers, experienced physical abuse from the current offender of the adult victim, and 8% experienced sexual abuse from the current offender of the adult victim.

F. Offense Characteristics

1. Alcohol/Drug Use Incidence

Approximately one-quarter (28%) of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement identified alcohol/drug use. Alcohol/drugs were used by 29% of victims served by domestic violence service providers. Nearly two-thirds (63%) of offenders of the victims served by statewide providers used alcohol/drugs at the time of the domestic violence incident. Nationally, nearly half the female victims of intimate violence reported that the offender was drinking or using illegal drugs at the time of the crime. (Criminal Victimization, 2011 [NCVS, 2010])

2. Weapon Incidence

A weapon was used in 55% of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement and 22% of the cases reported by victims served by domestic violence service providers. The large disparity between weapon-related assaults in domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement and victims may be explained in part, by a difference in perception between the two parties regarding what constitutes a weapon. Police officers, guided by state statute, regard the use of fists, feet, elbows, etc., as “personal weapons”. Victims may define weapons as objects other than those defined as “personal weapons” such as a bat, gun, knife, etc.

In 2010, the NCVS reported that a weapon was used in 22% of all violent victimizations, 61% of serious violent victimizations, and 20% of aggravated and simple assaults (Criminal Victimization, 2011 [NCVS, 2010]). In 2018, 4% percent of all assaults involved a firearm, 8% involved a knife, and 87% involved “other” weapons.

3. Injury Incidence

Forty-five percent of law enforcement-reported domestic violence cases involved injury to the victim. Similarly, 36% of adult victims served by domestic violence service providers reported being physically injured from the domestic assault. Nationally, in 2010, the NCVS reported that 29% of all victims of violence suffered an injury; and that 41% of victims of serious violence suffered an injury.

4. Victim/Offender Relationship

Current or former intimate partner described the victim/offender relationship of 64% of law enforcement-reported domestic violence cases and 84% of domestic violence cases reported by service providers in 2018. In 2010, the NCVS reported that 64% of reported and unreported domestic violence victimizations involved an intimate partner (current or former spouse, boyfriend or girlfriend) (Criminal Victimization, 2011 [NCVS, 2010]).

5. Interpersonal Violence Reported to Law Enforcement

In 2018, 45% of domestic violence victims who went for help reported their victimization incident to law enforcement. Nationally, half of all violent victimizations were reported to law enforcement (Criminal Victimization, 2011 [NCVS, 2010]).

6. Rates of Suspect Arrest

In 2018, 38% of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement resulted in a suspect arrest.

G. Domestic Violence And The Courts

1. Protection Orders

In 2018, there were 11,285 protection orders issued by statewide district courts for one or more parties involved in 6,417 domestic-violence related protection order cases. Of the 11,285 protection orders issued, 2% (198) were emergency protection orders, 76% (8,550) were domestic violence temporary orders of protection, and 23% (2,537) were judgments for permanent protection orders.

The ASD revealed that half (49%) of domestic violence survivors obtained a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident. Of the 628 survivors involved in a prior domestic violence incident as an adult, 20% (125) obtained an order of protection. With regard to prior domestic violence events, more females (20%) than males (12%) reported obtaining a protection order.

2. New Domestic Violence Charges Filed

Overall in 2018, there were 16,888 new domestic violence charges filed in 13,209 new cases in statewide district and magistrate courts, including the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court. This represents 70% of the total number of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement for the same time period (18,884).

There were a total of 14,056 domestic violence charges filed in 11,444 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico Magistrate Courts in 2018; and 2,832 domestic violence charges filed in 1,765 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico District Courts in 2018. All cases/charges are against a household member: battery, aggravated battery, and false imprisonment comprised most of the charges filed in both courts.

3. Domestic Violence Cases Disposed in District Courts

Of the 1,677 cases of domestic violence disposed in district courts in 2018, 30% (504) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 2% (30) obtained an acquittal, 52% (872) were dismissed, and 16% (271) had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other” dispositions (conditional discharges, remands, consent decrees, and deferred cases).

4. Domestic Violence Cases Disposed in Magistrate Courts

Of the 11,067 cases of domestic violence disposed in magistrate courts in 2018, 8% (855) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 1% (82) obtained an acquittal, 80% (8,836) were dismissed, and 12% (1,294) had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other” dispositions (bind over cases, transfers, deferred cases, and conditional discharges).

III. IMPLICATIONS OF THE FINDINGS AND FUTURE DATA NEEDS

A. Identifying Children at Risk

Service providers reported that children were present at one out of every three domestic violence incidents in 2018, and 77% of them were under the age of twelve. The ASD revealed that children who witness abuse are four times more likely to experience child abuse than children who do not witness abuse. It further found that most (62%) abused children experienced multiple types of abuse, most typically at the hands of a family member (84%); and those abused as children have poorer health outcomes. Survivors abused as children compared to those not abused were six times more likely to be abused as an adult, four times more likely respectively, to be told they have a mental illness and attempt suicide, and three times more likely respectively, to think about suicide and be told they have a substance abuse problem. The children served by statewide service providers (2,401) represent 36% of the number present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement (6,651). These numbers represent only children in domestic violence cases that are reported. With so much at stake, it is imperative that greater effort be made (protocols for coordinated community response and systems put in place) to better identify children that witness child abuse and ensure participation in appropriate counseling services for assessment and treatment.

B. Poverty and Violence

Most of the battered women who go to a domestic violence service provider for shelter and/or other services are poor. Since there is no way to capture the number of survivors with financial means who access private services, and/or who travel out of state for services, it is not possible to determine the true proportion of survivors among all battered women who are poor. However, the ASD found that most unmarried survivors with children and those without children who went for domestic violence services in New Mexico meet federal poverty level requirements for 150% and 133% of income, as well as the more restrictive federal poverty income level.

Almost two-thirds (60%) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32%) reported that they returned. Reasons for returning to their abuser in the order of most mentions include, returned: to try to work it out, for the children, and because I was scared. A central core of the consideration for returning “for the children” is finances. Among the descriptions for scared is “no support/lack of resources”. Indeed, the ASD revealed that survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920). It further found that only 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive Medicaid/TANF assistance live in their own apartment or home. Most live in shelter (23%), with a friend (29%), transitional housing (1%), or on the street (3%).

Of survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% reported that they live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence incident. When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income of $2,400 less ($9,600) than survivors who do not live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

All of this points to the reality of the role that poverty plays in an individual’s vulnerability to living in violence. Greater emphasis must be focused on providing basic housing, food, clothing, transportation, and access to employment and health care for victims and their families to allow them to leave and stay away from a violent environment.

C. Mental Illness and Health and Safety Risk

Survivors with a parent with mental illness were twelve times more likely than other survivors to be told they have mental illness. Survivors with mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without to be told they have a substance abuse problem and two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident and to be injured during a violent incident. These data have implications for investigating the plausibility of developing a system for at-scene referral to mental health agencies to evaluate survivors for mental illness, both for their own sake, and the sake of their children's future health and safety.

D. Injury Risk Factors

Law enforcement agencies reported that 45% of the domestic violence incidents in 2018 involved injury to the victim. They do not document or report injury to children. Service providers reported that 36% of survivors and 26% of children were injured in domestic violence cases that came to their attention.

From the ASD, among the types of abuse reported by the 89% of survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner, are physical attack (60%), physical restraint (29%), threatened to be harmed or killed (34%), strangulation (12%), sexual assault (11%) and involvement of a lethal weapon (12%). Twenty percent of children present during these abusive incidents suffered the same types of abuse.

The ASD revealed that survivor risk of injury increased among survivors: a) with a substance abuse problem; b) with a mental illness; c) involved in a prior domestic violence incident; d) ever abused while pregnant; e) who are female; or f) who are Native American. This information has implications for law enforcement for assessing risk of harm to the survivor and children at the scene, and for service providers when developing safety plans with survivors.

E. Substance Abuse and Risk

In 2018, 29% of adult survivors who sought help reported using alcohol/drugs at the time of the domestic violence incident. Two-thirds (63%) reported that their offender was using alcohol/drugs at the time of the incident, as well. As with mental illness, survivors who were told they have a substance abuse problem compared to those without, were two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident, to be involved in an incident where the abuser used alcohol/drugs, and to be injured during a domestic violence incident. Additionally, survivors with an substance abuse problem were two times more likely than those without a substance abuse problem to think about suicide, and four times more likely to attempt suicide. This information has implications for providing access to substance abuse treatment for survivors.

F. Evidence Supporting the Focus on Early Intervention to Prevent Domestic Violence

In 2018, two-thirds (65%) of the law enforcement incidents documenting the victim/offender relationship, were perpetrated by a current or former intimate partner, 48% of these by current or former boyfriends/girlfriends who are or were dating or living together. Similarly, 84% of adult victims who sought services from a domestic violence service provider were assaulted by a current or former intimate partner, 38% of these were dating or living together. The NISVS State Report found that 37.3% of women and 33.3% of men in New Mexico were victims of intimate partner violence in their lifetime. Further, nationally 7.1% of women who were lifetime victims of intimate partner violence and 3.7% of men who were lifetime victims of intimate partner violence were victimized before age 18. In New Mexico, 6.9% of women lifetime victims of intimate partner violence were victimized before age 18. Further, stalking behaviors begin in adolescence and the reported incidence of adolescent stalking is almost twice that of adolescent intimate partner violence. The high proportion of interpersonal violence cases perpetrated by adolescent offenders, demonstrates that true prevention requires early education initiatives on building healthy relationships during adolescence.

G. Sexual Assault Prevention and Treatment for Domestic Violence Child and Adult Victims

In 2012, the ASD found many children experienced sexual abuse (8%) at the hands of their adult-victim's offender. Similarly in 2018, 16% of adult domestic violence victims seeking counseling services and 8% of children were sexually assaulted by their offender.

The NISVS State Report reported that 16.5% of women in New Mexico that were ever victims of intimate partner violence, experienced contact sexual violence (rape and/or unwanted sexual contact) by their intimate partner. This suggests that effective prevention and treatment programs for domestic violence victims must include components of sexual assault prevention and treatment or must provide referrals to appropriate sexual assault services.

H. Interpersonal Violence Prevention and Advocacy for Males

In New Mexico in 2018, 30% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were males. The NISVS State Report found that 33.3% of New Mexico men were victims of intimate partner violence in their lifetime. More outreach must be done to identify male victims of interpersonal violence and offer prevention and treatment programs specific to males.

I. Providing Offender Treatment Programs

In New Mexico, 72% of suspects identified by law enforcement and 82% of offenders identified by domestic violence service providers in 2018, were male. Nationally, the NCVS found that 95.7% of female victims of intimate partner violence and 16% of male victims of intimate partner violence, had a male offender (Criminal Victimization, 2011). Further, findings from the NISVS State Report revealed that in 84.8% of lifetime stalking victimizations with female victims and 43% of lifetime stalking victimizations with male victims had a male offender. Perhaps greater outcomes in domestic violence prevention may be realized through greater availability of offender prevention and therapeutic programs that include strategies for addressing aggression in male socialization.

J. Evidence Supporting the Need to Identify Domestic Violence Victims in the Healthcare Setting

In 2018, law enforcement reported that 45% of adult victims were physically injured during a domestic violence incident. Similarly, statewide service providers reported that 36% of adults and 26% of children were physically injured by the adult victim's offender during a domestic violence incident. The NISVS State Report stated that an average 30.8% of women victims of intimate partner violence and 13.4% of men victims of intimate partner violence each year nationally, were injured. Additionally, an average 15.3% of women and 6.2% of men each year required medical care for their injuries. This suggests that New Mexico healthcare facilities may play an important role in both, the identification of domestic violence victims and their referral to appropriate services.

Patients that are seen in the healthcare/emergency room setting with a domestic violence-related injury are typically not reported to law enforcement and represent a substantial gap in reporting. While many healthcare facilities use screening tools to identify patients who are victims of domestic violence, no standardized monitoring system to reliably document the number of these individuals currently exists. Methods to determine healthcare utilization by victims of violence through e-codes or billing databases have been unsuccessful and are unreliable at best, due to definitional problems of the codes, practitioner discretion and inconsistencies in naming injuries, and the insurance-related intentions of billing databases. The need to rectify these problems is underscored by findings from the NISVS State Report which revealed substantial co-morbidity with intimate partner violence victims with regard to chronic physical and mental health problems. Among women victims of intimate partner violence, 6.2% reported poor physical health compared to 3.0% of women with no history of violence. Similarly, among women victims of intimate partner violence, 3.6% reported poor mental health compared to 1.1% of women with no history of violence.

The process for collecting standardized domestic violence data from statewide medical facilities is not yet established. Since many times the first, and perhaps only contact a victim may have with the "helping system" is through a hospital emergency department or physicians' office, this creates a significant void in the Central Repository data and represents a major obstacle in accurately defining the scope and nature of domestic violence in our state. Moreover, until better protocols are established for identifying patient visits associated with interpersonal violence, a significant portion of the total cost of interpersonal violence to individuals, their communities, and the state cannot be estimated.

K. Evidence Supporting the Need for Culturally Competent Services for Native Americans

Native Americans are nearly three times (11%) more represented among the victimized population of domestic violence survivors served at Albuquerque SANE than their representation in the Bernalillo County population (3.9%). This rate of victimization-representation to population-representation is greater than all other non-multiracial persons: Blacks (2.0 times); Hispanics (1.2 times); White [non-Hispanics] (-1.68 times); and other race/ethnicity (1.0 times). This is consistent with the NISVS State Report finding that intimate partner victimizations of Native American women were significantly more represented than other races/ethnicities in the victimized population of lifetime intimate partner violence nationally. A reported 47.5% of American Indian/Alaska Native women, 45.1% of non-Hispanic Black women, 37.3% of non-Hispanic White women, 34.4% of Hispanic women, and 18.3% of non-Hispanic Asian or Pacific Islander women experienced intimate partner violence in their lifetime.

The NISVS State Report does not provide a rate of lifetime intimate partner violence among Native Americans in New Mexico, nor the rate of intimate partner violence in the preceding 12 months to obtain an annual incidence estimate. Outside of municipal and county jurisdictions, there is no formalized process in place to capture the incidence of reported or unreported victimizations of Native Americans. It is recommended that such a process be established to improve the identification of Native American survivors to: a) enable survivors to be referred to appropriate services; b) increase investigation and prosecution of intimate partner crimes against Native Americans; c) improve the safety of Native American families and communities; and, 4) obtain data to justify the need for funds to improve prevention, as well as New Mexico's response to Native American victimizations.

L. Evidence Supporting the Need for Better Court Data on Domestic Violence

The Central Repository obtains data on many crimes against a household member from the Administration Office of the Courts: battery/aggravated battery, assault/aggravated assault, stalking/aggravated stalking, false imprisonment, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, harassment, and violation of a restrictive order.

Still, more comprehensive protection order information is needed to determine the efficacy of protection orders, emergency protection orders, their rate of enforcement, and the consequences for violating protection orders for offenders and victims.

It is important to obtain better court data because evidence of currently available data demonstrates that there has been a steady decrease in the rate of domestic violence convictions in statewide district and magistrate courts. In 2018, the conviction rates of disposed domestic violence cases in district (30%) and magistrate courts (8%) are among the lowest rates of conviction over the last nine years.

Without better data from the courts, vital information, such as why the dismissal rate in domestic violence cases has increased and why the rate of conviction for domestic violence cases has decreased, remains unknown. Answers to these questions will serve to improve the efficacy of legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

M. Stalking Underreporting, Training, and Victim Referral

New Mexico first enacted its stalking statute in 1997. In 2009, the legislature amended the definition of “pattern of conduct” in the statute to reflect the variety of behaviors stalkers were employing in cases across the state, including the use of technology. N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3(2010): (2) "pattern of conduct " means two or more acts, on more than one occasion, in which the alleged stalker by any action, method, device or means, directly, indirectly or through third parties, follows, monitors, surveils, threatens or communicates to or about a person. The new statute also included a court ordered program intervention as part of the punishment for a convicted stalker, “D. In addition to any punishment provided pursuant to the provisions of this section, the court shall order a person convicted of stalking to participate in and complete a program of professional counseling at the person's own expense or a domestic violence offender treatment or intervention program.” The statute change in aggravated stalking was believed to be the most promising in law enforcement’s efforts to establish a stalking charge as it allowed a charge of aggravated stalking if a perpetrator merely violated an existing order of protection or conditions of release: N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3.1 2010): Aggravated stalking. A. Aggravated stalking consists of stalking perpetrated by a person: (1) who knowingly violates a permanent or temporary order of protection issued by a court, except that mutual violations of such orders may constitute a defense to aggravated stalking; (2) in violation of a court order setting conditions of release and bond.

Even with new stalking policies, there are still too few cases of stalking recognized and charged as such by law enforcement agencies throughout the state. Nationally, the NISVS found that 19.0% of women and 6.1% of men were victims of stalking in their lifetime. Nationally from 2010-2012, the NISVS found that an average 4.2% of adult women each year and an average 1.9% of adult men each year were victims of stalking. If we used the national annual rate to estimate the number of women stalking victims in New Mexico in 2012, it would mean that there were an estimated 33,610 women stalking victims that year (800,247 women [18 and over] x 4.2%). Similarly, if we used the national annual rate to estimate the number of men stalking victims in New Mexico in 2012 (770,669 men [18 and over] x 1.9%), it would mean that there were an estimated 14,642 men stalking victims that year.

Therefore in 2012, there would be an estimated 48,252 stalking victims in New Mexico. The most stalking cases identified in New Mexico in 2012 was 312, reported by statewide district and magistrate courts. Statewide law enforcement agencies that year reported 68 total cases. In 2018, 435 new stalking and aggravated stalking cases were filed in New Mexico district and magistrate courts; and statewide law enforcement agencies identified 168 stalking victims.

There are numerous administrative and procedural issues that affect accurate reporting of domestic violence and stalking incidents ranging from whether and how police offense incident reports are written to how these reports are entered into law enforcement databases or otherwise counted.

The issues surrounding identification of stalking incidents and victims present obstacles for victims to obtain access to the necessary safety and advocacy services for themselves and their children. This is explained in part by the fact that most stalking cases are labeled other crimes (harassment, vandalism, destruction of property, arson, trespassing, car theft, etc.) and are therefore not captured. The failure to differentiate between stalking victims and victims of isolated crimes means that many stalking victims are not getting referred for appropriate services. This is a significant problem because interpersonal violence crimes many times co-occur. The NISVS found that 68.1% of women and 64.7% of men stalking victims in the prior 12 months of the survey experienced threats of harm; and 61.5% of women and 42.8% of men in the prior 12 months were stalked by an intimate partner. These victims and their children are at greater health and safety risk and need to be referred for appropriate services; and these types of referrals are not likely to happen as a result of a trespass, vandalism, or other similarly labeled, isolated crime incident.

It is imperative to provide necessary training to all law enforcement officers, administrative personnel, and executive personnel whose policies guide law enforcement procedure regarding the description, documentation, and data entry of stalking crimes, and referrals of stalking victims to appropriate services.

I. INTRODUCTION

In 2005, the Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention obtained funds to conduct a statewide Survey of Violence Victimization (SVV). The purpose of the survey was to obtain state estimates of the prevalence and nature of victimization among adults in New Mexico. Preliminary findings from the SVV were published in Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico VI, July 2006. Additionally, findings on the lifetime prevalence of domestic violence, its nature, and impact on victims and their families were published in the Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico VII, July 2007. These reports can be found on-line at nmcswp.org.

The Central Repository has been publishing the baseline rates of domestic violence, stalking, and sexual assault for New Mexico every year since 2006, on the FACT SHEET of its annual Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico report. As it has been fourteen years since the first statewide victimization survey, it is way past time to conduct a follow-up survey to measure changes in incidence and prevalence rates in interpersonal crimes in New Mexico. However to date, due to funding challenges, no funds have been appropriated for this purpose. While obtaining baseline rates were critical to more accurately estimate the rates of “unreported” interpersonal violence crimes in New Mexico, the age of these data now render the findings less relevant.

The National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey (NISVS) funded by the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, is an on-going survey of sexual violence, stalking, and intimate partner violence among adult women and men in the United States. Fortunately, data collected from 2010-2012 were analyzed to determine estimated lifetime rates of specific interpersonal violence victimizations for all 50 states and the District of Columbia and published in the NISVS 2010-2012 State Report. While annual incidence rates are not available for most states, this report is invaluable to provide lifetime estimates of these reported and unreported interpersonal violence crimes that could otherwise not be obtained unless each state had the funds to conduct its own victimization survey.

Current estimates of each of the specified interpersonal violence crimes presented on the FACT SHEET of this report are based on the NISVS 2010-2012 State Report, hereafter referred to as the NISVS State Report.

The NISVS State Report found significant differences in the prevalence of lifetime interpersonal violence among survivors of different racial/ethnic groups. In 2017, findings from an examination of six years of individualized domestic violence data from the Albuquerque Sane Collaborative were published in a special supplement of the Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence in NM, XVI report, 2017. This special supplement, An Examination of Domestic Violence by Survivor Race/Ethnicity in Bernalillo County, can be found on-line at nmcswp.org.

From 2010 to 2012, the Adult Survivor Database (ASD) was developed in collaboration with the New Mexico Coalition Against Domestic Violence to capture research information on individual domestic violence survivors who seek assistance from statewide domestic violence service providers. The individual data made possible the study of existing relationships between factors that influence risk and outcomes of domestic violence victimization. Findings from the ASD were first published in the 2013 Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence XII, report. To review these findings see Appendix A: Life Experiences of Adult Survivors of Domestic Violence.

Section One of this report presents an analysis of aggregate law enforcement and service provider domestic violence data from calendar year 2018 and individual data from the Administration Office of the Courts which were all submitted to the New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository.

Section Two presents a discussion of the implications of the findings presented herein, the findings from the ASD and NISVS data, and a review of the data limitations to highlight future data needs.

Section Three presents an analysis of 16 important domestic violence variables for each individual county, so that the reader can access important domestic violence trends in his/her county at a glance.

SECTION ONE: ANALYSIS OF 2018 DOMESTIC VIOLENCE LAW ENFORCEMENT, SERVICE PROVIDER, AND COURT DATA FROM THE CENTRAL REPOSITORY

I. DEFINITIONS

Domestic violence incidence as determined by law enforcement include all incidents of assault, aggravated assault, battery, aggravated battery, and criminal damage to property as outlined in the “Crimes Against Household Members Act” in statutes 30-3-10 through 3-3-18. Full definitions are found in Appendix B.

Data submitted from law enforcement agencies are used to determine statewide domestic-violence reported incidence and the county rates of reported domestic violence.

Domestic violence cases, as determined by domestic violence service providers, include all adult victims who are accepted as clients by the providers for delivery of services. Data on children victim-witnesses and offenders served by domestic violence service providers are also analyzed and presented herein. None of the cases served by the domestic violence service providers are considered in the county reported rates of incidence to avoid possible duplication of reporting.

Domestic violence data from all magistrate and district courts include codes that capture aggravated assault, aggravated battery, aggravated stalking, assault, battery, stalking, assault with intent to commit a violent felony, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, false imprisonment, violation of a protective order, and harassment - all against a household member. These codes are extracted from the Administrative Office of the Courts Judicial Information System.

Currently, standardized data from each aforementioned discipline are submitted to the Central Repository on a quarterly basis. The data from the Central Repository analyzed for this report covers domestic violence data for the period 1/1/18 – 12/31/18.

II. LAW ENFORCEMENT AND SERVICE PROVIDER DATA FINDINGS

A. Domestic Violence Incidents in 2018 Identified by Law Enforcement

There were 108 law enforcement agencies that submitted domestic violence data to the Central Repository during 2018 (see Appendix C). Data from each participating agency was extracted from police offense incident reports and submitted in aggregate form on the standardized Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Data Collection Form (see Appendix D).

The total number of reports for each variable analyzed from law enforcement vary as all questions may not be answered on each report submitted. The number of reports considered for each question analyzed is stated throughout the report as the findings on each variable are discussed. There were 18,884 domestic violence incidents reported to statewide law enforcement agencies in 2018. This represents a 2% decrease from that reported in 2017 (19,234).

B. Domestic Violence Victims Identified by Law Enforcement: Number, Gender, and Age

There were 102 law enforcement agencies that reported the number of victims involved in their domestic violence incidents. Of 18,246 incidents reported by these agencies, 20,465 victims were identified.

▶ Number of Adult Victims Identified by Law Enforcement	20,465
▶ Number Gender Known	17,788
▶ Number Male Victims	5,332 (30%)
▶ Number Female Victims	12,456 (70%)
▶ Number and Gender of Victims by Law Enforcement Agency	Table 3

Of the 17,753 reports that identified victim age, the greatest proportion of all victims was in the age group 26-35 (27%), followed by 36-45 (19%). The age group 19-25 comprised 17% of all victims. See Figure 1.

C. Domestic Violence Suspects Identified by Law Enforcement: Number, Gender, and Age

There were 102 law enforcement agencies that reported the number of suspects involved in their domestic violence incidents. Of 18,246 incidents reported by these agencies, 19,882 suspects were identified.

▶ Number of Suspects Identified by Law Enforcement	19,882
▶ Number of Suspects Gender Known	16,093

► Number Male Suspects	11,675 (72%)
► Number Female Suspects	4,418 (28%)
► Number and Gender of Suspects by Law Enforcement Agency	Table 4

Of 15,875 reports that identified suspect age, the age group with the greatest proportion of reported suspects was 26-35 (34%), followed by 36-45 (22%), and 19-25 (21%). See Figure 2.

D. Race/Ethnicity of Victims and Suspects Identified by Law Enforcement

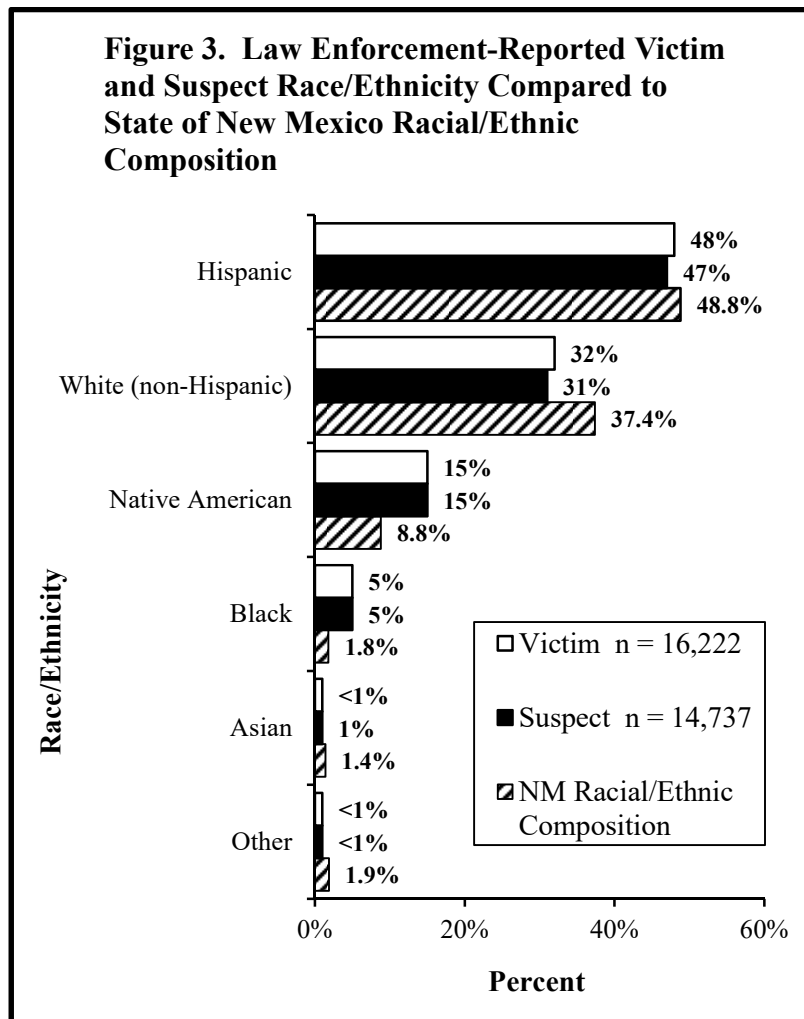

► Number of Law Enforcement Victims Race/Ethnicity Identified	16,222
► Number of Law Enforcement Suspects Race/Ethnicity Identified	14,737

Of 16,222 domestic violence victims, 48% were Hispanic, 32% White (non-Hispanic), 15% Native American, 5% Black, <1% respectively, Asian, and victims of “other” races. Likewise, of the 14,737 reports that identified suspect race/ethnicity, 47% were Hispanic, 31% White (non-Hispanic), 15% Native American, 5% Black, and 1% Asian. Suspects of “other” races comprised <1% of all suspects. For a comparison of victim and suspect race/ethnicity to racial/ethnic compositions in New Mexico, see Figure 3.

E. Stalking and Harassment Incidents Identified by Law Enforcement

There were 4,408 law enforcement reports that documented the number of stalking cases that came to the attention of law enforcement in 2018. Of these, 168 (4%) stalking cases were identified. Similarly, there were 4,570 reports that documented the number of harassment cases that came to the attention of law enforcement. Of these, 1,303 (28.5%) harassment cases were identified.

► Number of Law Enforcement-Identified Domestic Violence Incidents	18,884
► Number of Law Enforcement Reports Documenting Stalking Status	4,408

F. Domestic Violence Victims Served by Domestic Violence Service Providers

There were 28 domestic violence service providers that submitted data to the Central Repository for 2018 (see Appendix H). Aggregate data from each participating agency was extracted from client intake information and submitted on the standardized Domestic Violence Service Agencies Data Collection Form (see Appendix I).

The total number of reports for each variable analyzed from service providers vary as all questions may not be answered on each report submitted. The number of reports considered for each question analyzed is stated throughout the report as the findings on each variable are discussed.

1. Number Seeking Services

There were 10,413 new clients served during 2018, which is a 2% decrease in the number of clients served in 2017 (10,630).

- ▶ Number of Adult Victims, Children, and Offenders Served for All Counties
- ▶ Number of Adult Victims Served by Agency
- ▶ Five-Year Trends of All Served for Each County

Table 7
Table 8
Section 3B

► Total Number of Adult Victims Served by Service Providers	6,453
► Total Number of Children Victim/Witnesses Served by Service Providers	2,401
► Total Number of Offenders Treated by Service Providers	1,217
► Number of Offenders Treated by Agency	Table 9

An analysis was conducted comparing the number of adult victims served to the number of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement (in counties with the law enforcement agency from the largest city reporting, and where the direct service provider reported in all four quarters of 2018). This analysis revealed that Dona Ana County had the fewest number of victims receiving services relative to the number of incidents reported to police (1 out of 7.9), followed by Lea County (1 out of 6.8), Bernalillo County (1 out of 3.9), and McKinley County (1 out of 3.6). See Figure 4.

In 2018, service provider cases (represented by adult victims who went for help) (6,453) represent 34% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement (18,884). This is greater than the 30% of law enforcement incidents represented by adult victims served in 2017.

► Five-Year Trends in The Percent of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Incidents Represented by The Number of Adult Victims Served for Individual Counties

Section 3C

Offenders who went for treatment (1,217) represent 6% of the domestic violence suspects identified by law enforcement (19,882). This is a 0.5% increase from those represented in 2017.

2. Gender of Those Served

Survivor gender was documented in 4,716 adult victims served. Ninety-three percent (4,378) of the adult victims served were female. Conversely, 82% (933) of the 1,137 reports that documented offender gender, reported the offender was male. Gender was documented 2,221 of the children victim-witnesses served. Fifty-one percent (1,125) were male children and 49% (1,096) were female children. See Figure 5.

- Number of Victims Served by Each Service Provider Agency, by Gender
 ► Number of Offenders Served by Service Provider Agency, by Gender

3. Ages of Those Served

The age of the adult victim was documented in 4,655 provider reports. Among adult victims, 57% (2,634) were predominately 22-40 years of age, 30% (1,411) were 41-59 years of age, and 7% (342) were 18-21 years of age. Victims ages 60-74 comprised 5% (231) of all adult victims served, and victims ages >74 comprised <1% (22). See Figure 6.

III. DISTRICT AND MAGISTRATE COURT FINDINGS

The Central Repository in collaboration with the AOC was able to identify and extract valuable district and magistrate court data regarding new domestic violence charges and cases filed in 2018, charges and cases disposed in 2018, and the type of disposition outcomes for domestic violence cases. County totals on domestic violence cases filed, and conviction and dismissal rates on domestic violence cases disposed in district and magistrate courts for 2018, are found in Section Three, Tables M – P.

Additionally, the Central Repository has obtained new 2018 cases of false imprisonment, as well as some cases of harassment, stalking, and aggravated stalking where the domestic relationship, while likely, could not be confirmed from the documentation provided from the courts. Therefore, these data are presented separately.

6. Harassment, Stalking/Aggravated Stalking, and False Imprisonment Cases Filed in District Courts, 2018

While most harassment, stalking/aggravated stalking, and false imprisonment charges/cases are domestic-related, in some of the district court cases of these offenses, the victim/offender relationship was not documented to determine whether the offense was domestic in nature. However, the total number of all stalking/aggravated stalking cases, harassment cases, and false imprisonment cases are being presented to provide a credible source than law enforcement-reported data on the annual incidence of reported harassment, stalking/aggravated stalking, and false imprisonment crimes.

Over all, there were 472 false imprisonment cases, 38 harassment cases, and 123 stalking/aggravated stalking cases filed in District Courts in 2018. See Table 36 for the number of new cases of these crimes filed in each district court.

False Imprisonment Cases Disposed in District Courts, 2018

There were 486 false imprisonment cases disposed in statewide district courts in 2018. This represents a 28% decrease from these crimes disposed in 2017. Albuquerque District Court comprised 32% or 157 of the false imprisonment cases that were disposed, followed by Aztec/Farmington District Court, 11% (52), Las Cruces District Court, 8% (40), and Santa Fe District Court, 6% (30). One-quarter (24%) (68) were disposed in Albuquerque Metro Court, followed by Santa Fe Magistrate Court, 10% (29) and Las Cruces Magistrate Court, 8% (21). See Table 47. Over three-quarters (78% or 217) of harassment cases disposed in magistrate courts were dismissed, 10% (28) obtained a conviction, and 1% (3) obtained an acquittal. Refer to Figure 29. Ten percent (30) of harassment cases resulted in “other” dispositions (deferred cases, 4% (11), bind-over cases, 4% (10), transferred cases, 1% (4), and conditional discharge cases, <1% (1).

There were 940 false imprisonment cases disposed in statewide magistrate courts in 2018. Albuquerque Metro Court comprised 32% (302) of the false imprisonment cases that were disposed, followed by Santa Fe Magistrate Court, 11% (104), and Farmington Magistrate Court (47), Las Cruces Magistrate Court (46), and Los Lunas Magistrate Court (43), with 5%, respectively. See Table 48.

Of the 940 false imprisonment cases disposed in magistrate courts, nearly three-quarters (71% or 663) were dismissed, and 1% (5) obtained a guilty plea or conviction. Refer to Figure 29. The remaining 29% (272) were cases with “other” dispositions such bind-over cases, 20% (184), transferred cases, 8% (79), deferred cases, 1% (5), and <1% (1) of conditional discharge cases which demonstrated prosecution proceedings that did not result in a dismissal, conviction, or acquittal.

SECTION TWO: IMPLICATIONS OF THE FINDINGS AND FUTURE DATA NEEDS

A. Identifying Children at Risk

Service providers reported that children were present at one out of every three domestic violence incidents in 2018, and 77% of them were under the age of twelve. The ASD revealed that children who witness abuse are four times more likely to experience child abuse than children who do not witness abuse. It further found that most (62%) abused children experienced multiple types of abuse, most typically at the hands of a family member (84%); and those abused as children have poorer health outcomes. Survivors abused as children compared to those not abused were six times more likely to be abused as an adult, four times more likely respectively, to be told they have a mental illness and attempt suicide, and three times more likely respectively, to think about suicide and be told they have a substance abuse problem. The children served by statewide service providers (2,401) represent 36% of the number present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement (6,651). These numbers represent only children in domestic violence cases that are reported. With so much at stake, it is imperative that greater effort be made (protocols for coordinated community response and systems put in place) to better identify children that witness child abuse and ensure participation in appropriate counseling services for assessment and treatment.

B. Poverty and Violence

Most of the battered women who go to a domestic violence service provider for shelter and/or other services are poor. Since there is no way to capture the number of survivors with financial means who access private services, and/or who travel out of state for services, it is not possible to determine the true proportion of survivors among all battered women who are poor. However, the ASD found that most unmarried survivors with children and those without children who went for domestic violence services in New Mexico meet federal poverty level requirements for 150% and 133% of income, as well as the more restrictive federal poverty income level.

Almost two-thirds (60%) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32%) reported that they returned. Reasons for returning to their abuser in the order of most mentions include, returned: to try to work it out, for the children, and because I was scared. A central core of the consideration for returning “for the children” is finances. Among the descriptions for scared is “no support/lack of resources”. Indeed, the ASD revealed that survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920). It further found that only 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive Medicaid/TANF assistance live in their own apartment or home. Most live in shelter (23%), with a friend (29%), transitional housing (1%), or on the street (3%).

Of survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% reported that they live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence incident. When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income of $2,400 less ($9,600) than survivors who do not live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

All of this points to the reality of the role that poverty plays in an individual's vulnerability to living in violence. Greater emphasis must be focused on providing basic housing, food, clothing, transportation, and access to employment and health care for victims and their families to allow them to leave and stay away from a violent environment.

C. Mental Illness and Health and Safety Risk

Survivors with a parent with mental illness were twelve times more likely than other survivors to be told they have mental illness. Survivors with mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without to be told they have a substance abuse problem and two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident and to be injured during a violent incident. These data have implications for investigating the plausibility of developing a system for at-scene referral to mental health agencies to evaluate survivors for mental illness, both for their own sake, and the sake of their children's future health and safety.

D. Injury Risk Factors

Law enforcement agencies reported that 45% of the domestic violence incidents in 2018 involved injury to the victim. They do not document or report injury to children. Service providers reported that 36% of survivors and 26% of children were injured in domestic violence cases that came to their attention.

From the ASD, among the types of abuse reported by the 89% of survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner, are physical attack (60%), physical restraint (29%), threatened to be harmed or killed (34%), strangulation (12%), sexual assault (11%) and involvement of a lethal weapon (12%). Twenty percent of children present during these abusive incidents suffered the same types of abuse.

The ASD revealed that survivor risk of injury increased among survivors: a) with a substance abuse problem; b) with a mental illness; c) involved in a prior domestic violence incident; d) ever abused while pregnant; e) who are female; or f) who are Native American. This information has implications for law enforcement for assessing risk of harm to the survivor and children at the scene, and for service providers when developing safety plans with survivors.

E. Substance Abuse and Risk

In 2018, 29% of adult survivors who sought help reported using alcohol/drugs at the time of the domestic violence incident. Two-thirds (63%) reported that their offender was using alcohol/drugs at the time of the incident, as well. As with mental illness, survivors who were told they have a substance abuse problem compared to those without, were two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident, to be involved in an incident where the abuser used alcohol/drugs, and to be injured during a domestic violence incident. Additionally, survivors with an substance abuse problem were two times more likely than those without a substance abuse problem to think about suicide, and four times more likely to attempt suicide. This information has implications for providing access to substance abuse treatment for survivors.

F. Evidence Supporting the Focus on Early Intervention to Prevent Domestic Violence

In 2018, two-thirds (65%) of the law enforcement incidents documenting the victim/offender relationship, were perpetrated by a current or former intimate partner, 48% of these by current or former boyfriends/girlfriends who are or were dating or living together. Similarly, 84% of adult victims who sought services from a domestic violence service provider were assaulted by a current or former intimate partner, 38% of these were dating or living together. The NISVS State Report found that 37.3% of women and 33.3% of men in New Mexico were victims of intimate partner violence in their lifetime. Further, nationally 7.1% of women who were lifetime victims of intimate partner violence and 3.7% of men who were lifetime victims of intimate partner violence were victimized before age 18. In New Mexico, 6.9% of women lifetime victims of intimate partner violence were victimized before age 18. Further, stalking behaviors begin in adolescence and the reported incidence of adolescent stalking is almost twice that of adolescent intimate partner violence. The high proportion of interpersonal violence cases perpetrated by adolescent offenders, demonstrates that true prevention requires early education initiatives on building healthy relationships during adolescence.

G. Sexual Assault Prevention and Treatment for Domestic Violence Child and Adult Victims

In 2012, the ASD found many children experienced sexual abuse (8%) at the hands of their adult-victim's offender. Similarly in 2018, 16% of adult domestic violence victims seeking counseling services and 8% of children were sexually assaulted by their offender.

The NISVS State Report reported that 16.5% of women in New Mexico that were ever victims of intimate partner violence, experienced contact sexual violence (rape and/or unwanted sexual contact) by their intimate partner. This suggests that effective prevention and treatment programs for domestic violence victims must include components of sexual assault prevention and treatment or must provide referrals to appropriate sexual assault services.

H. Interpersonal Violence Prevention and Advocacy for Males

In New Mexico in 2018, 30% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were males. The NISVS State Report found that 33.3% of New Mexico men were victims of intimate partner violence in their lifetime. More outreach must be done to identify male victims of interpersonal violence and offer prevention and treatment programs specific to males.

I. Providing Offender Treatment Programs

In New Mexico, 72% of suspects identified by law enforcement and 82% of offenders identified by domestic violence service providers in 2018, were male. Nationally, the NCVS found that 95.7% of female victims of intimate partner violence and 16% of male victims of intimate partner violence, had a male offender (Criminal Victimization, 2011). Further, findings from the NISVS State Report revealed that in 84.8% of lifetime stalking victimizations with female victims and 43% of lifetime stalking victimizations with male victims had a male offender. Perhaps greater outcomes in domestic violence prevention may be realized through greater availability of offender prevention and therapeutic programs that include strategies for addressing aggression in male socialization.

J. Evidence Supporting the Need to Identify Domestic Violence Victims in the Healthcare Setting

In 2018, law enforcement reported that 45% of adult victims were physically injured during a domestic violence incident. Similarly, statewide service providers reported that 36% of adults and 26% of children were physically injured by the adult victim's offender during a domestic violence incident. The NISVS State Report stated that an average 30.8% of women victims of intimate partner violence and 13.4% of men victims of intimate partner violence each year nationally, were injured. Additionally, an average 15.3% of women and 6.2% of men each year required medical care for their injuries. This suggests that New Mexico healthcare facilities may play an important role in both, the identification of domestic violence victims and their referral to appropriate services.

Patients that are seen in the healthcare/emergency room setting with a domestic violence-related injury are typically not reported to law enforcement and represent a substantial gap in reporting. While many healthcare facilities use screening tools to identify patients who are victims of domestic violence, no standardized monitoring system to reliably document the number of these individuals currently exists. Methods to determine healthcare utilization by victims of violence through e-codes or billing databases have been unsuccessful and are unreliable at best, due to definitional problems of the codes, practitioner discretion and inconsistencies in naming injuries, and the insurance-related intentions of billing databases. The need to rectify these problems is underscored by findings from the NISVS State Report which revealed substantial comorbidity with intimate partner violence victims with regard to chronic physical and mental health problems. Among women victims of intimate partner violence, 6.2% reported poor physical health compared to 3.0% of women with no history of violence. Similarly, among women victims of intimate partner violence, 3.6% reported poor mental health compared to 1.1% of women with no history of violence.

The process for collecting standardized domestic violence data from statewide medical facilities is not yet established. Since many times the first, and perhaps only contact a victim may have with the "helping system" is through a hospital emergency department or physicians' office, this creates a significant void in the Central Repository data and represents a major obstacle in accurately defining the scope and nature of domestic violence in our state. Moreover, until better protocols are established for identifying patient visits associated with interpersonal violence, a significant portion of the total cost of interpersonal violence to individuals, their communities, and the state cannot be estimated.

K. Evidence Supporting the Need for Culturally Competent Services for Native Americans

Native Americans are nearly three times (11%) more represented among the victimized population of domestic violence survivors served at Albuquerque SANE than their representation in the Bernalillo County population (3.9%). This rate of victimization-representation to population- representation is greater than all other non-multiracial persons: Blacks (2.0 times); Hispanics (1.2 times); White [non-Hispanics] (-1.68 times); and other race/ethnicity (1.0 times). This is consistent with the NISVS State Report finding that intimate partner victimizations of Native American women were significantly more represented than other races/ethnicities in the victimized population of lifetime intimate partner violence nationally. A reported 47.5% of American Indian/Alaska Native women, 45.1% of non-Hispanic Black women, 37.3% of non-Hispanic White women, 34.4% of Hispanic women, and 18.3% of non-Hispanic Asian or Pacific Islander women experienced intimate partner violence in their lifetime.

The NISVS State Report does not provide a rate of lifetime intimate partner violence among Native Americans in New Mexico, nor the rate of intimate partner violence in the preceding 12 months to obtain an annual incidence estimate. Outside of municipal and county jurisdictions, there is no formalized process in place to capture the incidence of reported or unreported victimizations of Native Americans. It is recommended that such a process be established to improve the identification of Native American survivors to: a) enable survivors to be referred to appropriate services; b) increase investigation and prosecution of intimate partner crimes against Native Americans; c) improve the safety of Native American families and communities; and, 4) obtain data to justify the need for funds to improve prevention, as well as New Mexico's response to Native American victimizations.

L. Evidence Supporting the Need for Better Court Data on Domestic Violence

The Central Repository obtains data on many crimes against a household member from the Administration Office of the Courts: battery/aggravated battery, assault/aggravated assault, stalking/aggravated stalking, false imprisonment, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, harassment, and violation of a restrictive order.

Still, more comprehensive protection order information is needed to determine the efficacy of protection orders, emergency protection orders, their rate of enforcement, and the consequences for violating protection orders for offenders and victims.

It is important to obtain better court data because evidence of currently available data demonstrates that there has been a steady decrease in the rate of domestic violence convictions in statewide district and magistrate courts. In 2018, the conviction rates of disposed domestic violence cases in district (30%) and magistrate courts (8%) are among the lowest rates of conviction over the last nine years.

Without better data from the courts, vital information, such as why the dismissal rate in domestic violence cases has increased and why the rate of conviction for domestic violence cases has decreased, remains unknown. Answers to these questions will serve to improve the efficacy of legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

M. Stalking Underreporting, Training, and Victim Referral

New Mexico first enacted its stalking statute in 1997. In 2009, the legislature amended the definition of “pattern of conduct” in the statute to reflect the variety of behaviors stalkers were employing in cases across the state, including the use of technology. N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3(2010): (2) “pattern of conduct ” means two or more acts, on more than one occasion, in which the alleged stalker by any action, method, device or means, directly, indirectly or through third parties, follows, monitors, surveils, threatens or communicates to or about a person. The new statute also included a court ordered program intervention as part of the punishment for a convicted stalker, “D. In addition to any punishment provided pursuant to the provisions of this section, the court shall order a person convicted of stalking to participate in and complete a program of professional counseling at the person's own expense or a domestic violence offender treatment or intervention program.” The statute change in aggravated stalking was believed to be the most promising in law enforcement’s efforts to establish a stalking charge as it allowed a charge of aggravated stalking if a perpetrator merely violated an existing order of protection or conditions of release: N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3.1 2010): Aggravated stalking. A. Aggravated stalking consists of stalking perpetrated by a person: (1) who knowingly violates a permanent or temporary order of protection issued by a court, except that mutual violations of such orders may constitute a defense to aggravated stalking; (2) in violation of a court order setting conditions of release and bond.

Even with new stalking policies, there are still too few cases of stalking recognized and charged as such by law enforcement agencies throughout the state. Nationally, the NISVS found that 19.0% of women and 6.1% of men were victims of stalking in their lifetime. Nationally from 2010-2012, the NISVS found that an average 4.2% of adult women each year and an average 1.9% of adult men each year were victims of stalking. If we used the national annual rate to estimate the number of women stalking victims in New Mexico in 2012, it would mean that there were an estimated 33,610 women stalking victims that year (800,247 women [18 and over] x 4.2%). Similarly, if we used the national annual rate to estimate the number of men stalking victims in New Mexico in 2012 (770,669 men [18 and over] x 1.9%), it would mean that there were an estimated 14,642 men stalking victims that year. Therefore in 2012, there would be an estimated 48,252 stalking victims in New Mexico. The most stalking cases identified in New Mexico in 2012 was 312 reported by statewide district and magistrate courts. Statewide law enforcement agencies that year reported 68 total cases. In 2018, 435 new stalking and aggravated stalking cases were filed in New Mexico district and magistrate courts; and statewide law enforcement agencies identified 168 stalking victims.

There are numerous administrative and procedural issues that affect accurate reporting of domestic violence and stalking incidents ranging from whether and how police offense incident reports are written to how these reports are entered into law enforcement databases or otherwise counted.

The issues surrounding identification of stalking incidents and victims present obstacles for victims to obtain access to the necessary safety and advocacy services for themselves and their children. This is explained in part by the fact that most stalking cases are labeled other crimes (harassment, vandalism, destruction of property, arson, trespassing, car theft, etc.) and are therefore not captured. The failure to differentiate between stalking victims and victims of isolated crimes means that many stalking victims are not getting referred for appropriate services. This is a significant problem because interpersonal violence crimes many times co-occur. The NISVS found that 68.1% of women and 64.7% of men stalking victims in the prior 12 months of the survey experienced threats of harm; and 61.5% of women and 42.8% of men in the prior 12 months were stalked by an intimate partner. These victims and their children are at greater health and safety risk and need to be referred for appropriate services; and these types of referrals are not likely to happen as a result of a trespass, vandalism, or other similarly labeled, isolated crime incident.

It is imperative to provide necessary training to all law enforcement officers, administrative personnel, and executive personnel whose policies guide law enforcement procedure regarding the description, documentation, and data entry of stalking crimes, and referrals of stalking victims to appropriate services.

Closing Comments

The aforementioned improvements will ultimately be required to answer the type of domestic violence questions that are most critical in guiding public policy decisions, program development, and the most effective allocation of resources. To this end, the Central Repository Director will continue to pursue collaborations with statewide agencies (both current participants and non-participants) and the NM Department of Health and the Department of Public Safety to develop a process for enhancing the present data collection system.

Appendix A: Life Experiences of Adult Survivors of Domestic Violence

The Adult Survivor Database (ASD) was developed to capture research information on individual domestic violence survivors who seek assistance from statewide domestic violence service providers. In 2012, eleven statewide service provider agencies began using the ASD. For calendar year 2012, there were 1,101 records available for analysis.

I. FINDINGS

A. Demographics

1. Survivor Gender, Race, Age, Sexual Orientation, Marital Status, and Language

Most domestic violence survivors were female (93%), Hispanic (56%) (see Figure 1), with a median age of 33 (see Figure 2). Sexual orientation was reported on only one-third (38%) of survivors, of which 95% were self-identified as heterosexual, 3% bisexual, and 2% lesbian. Marital status was not directly captured. However, when the survivor's relationship with the current abuser was documented, 27% were married and 6% were divorced.

One-quarter (24%) of domestic violence survivors speak a first language other than English. See Table A. A greater proportion of Spanish speaking survivors than survivors speaking other languages reported having difficulty with English: two-thirds (66%) of Spanish speaking survivors reported having difficulty with English, compared to 37.5% of Native speaking survivors, 7% of survivors of "other" languages, and 1% of English speaking survivors.

Table A. Survivor First/Preferred Language

First/Preferred Language	Number of Survivors	Percent Survivors
English	571	76%
Native American	8	1%
Other	15	2%
Portuguese	1	0.1%
Sign Language	3	0.4%
Spanish	149	20%
Total	747	100%

2. Survivor Education Level

Education level was reported for 478 survivors. Of these, 84% achieved a high school equivalent or higher education level. One-third (32% or 154) went to college or graduate school. Of 154 who went to college or graduate school, 79 (51%) completed their degree.

Education level was documented on too few Asian survivors (0), Black survivors (9), Pacific Islander survivors (1), survivors of mixed race (3) and survivors of "other" races (9) to validly examine. Among races/ethnicities that can be compared, 93% of Native Americans, 89% of Whites (non-Hispanic), and 79% of Hispanics completed high school or a higher level of education. Half (50%) of Native American survivors completed college or graduate school, compared to 38% of White (non-Hispanic) survivors and 26% of Hispanic survivors. See Figure 3.

3. Survivor Income

Slightly over one-third (39%) of survivors were enrolled in Medicaid (430), 13% (148) received TANF Assistance, and 11% (119) were involved in both programs. An examination of income by survivor race/ethnicity among those with a minimum of 20 survivors, reveals that "other" race was the one with the greatest proportion of survivors enrolled in Medicaid (60%), followed by Native Americans (48%), Blacks (46%), Hispanics (42%), and Whites (non-Hispanic) (31%). Native American survivors comprised the race with the greatest proportion receiving TANF assistance (20%) and involved in both Medicaid and TANF programs (16%). See Figure 4.

Of 687 survivors whose income was reported, the median income was $11,000. Most (mode) survivors reported a yearly income of $12,000. The average income was $20,606.

There were 642 survivors not eligible or receiving financial assistance (TANF and Medicaid). Of these, income was reported for 370 survivors. The median income was $15,500. Most (mode) survivors not eligible or receiving financial assistance reported an income of $15,000. Their average income was $25,118.

There were 459 survivors who were eligible or receiving financial assistance. Of these, income was reported for 317 survivors. The median income was $10,000. Most (mode) survivors eligible or receiving financial assistance reported an income of $12,000. Their average income was $15,339. See Figure 5.

Those survivors not eligible/not receiving financial assistance had a median income 50% higher, and an average income 64% higher, than those eligible/receiving assistance. However, the mean income of all survivors eligible/receiving or not, is $11,000 - 4% below the federal poverty guideline's level of poverty for an individual ($11,490); and well below the 133% ($15,282) to 150% ($17,235) of their income to qualify for federal assistance programs. In fact, 71% (490) of the 687 survivors with income reported had an actual income that would qualify them for federal assistance programs at the higher threshold of 150% of income, and 66% (456) would qualify for federal assistance programs at 133% of income.

An examination of income by race/ethnicity reveals that White (non-Hispanic) survivors reported the highest income (mean = $20,653; median = $12,000), followed by Hispanic survivors (mean = $17,667; median $12,000), survivors of "other" races (mean = $11,347; median = $10,326), Native American survivors (mean = $10,947; median = $8,868) and Black survivors (mean = $11,542; median = $8,382). See Figure 6.

4. Survivor Living Status

Over half (55%) of survivors did not live in their own rented apartment or own a home: 25% lived in shelter, 23% lived with a friend or relative, 3% were homeless/ living on the street, 2% lived with the offender, and 1% lived in transitional housing. See Figure 7.

When living status was examined by survivor income, significantly fewer survivors who need financial assistance live in an apartment or their own home: over half (57%) of survivors not eligible/not receiving financial assistance (TANF or Medicaid) live in a rented apartment or own home, compared to 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive assistance. Similarly, a significantly greater proportion (29%) of those eligible/receiving assistance, than those not eligible/not receiving assistance (15%), live with a friend or relative. See Figure 8.

Survivor Family of Origin and Childhood Experiences

1. Witnessing Family Violence As A Child and Child Abuse

One-third of domestic violence survivors reported that they witnessed family violence as a child. Children who witnessed family violence were four times more likely (59%) to experience child abuse than children who did not witness family violence (14%).

Over one-quarter (29%) of survivors reported actually being abused as a child. More female survivors reported witnessing (35%) and experiencing (30%) family violence, than male survivors (24% and 17%, respectively). However, this rate difference between genders should be viewed with caution as the number of male domestic violence survivors is relatively few (75).

When witnessing abuse and experiencing child abuse were examined by race/ethnicity, more Black survivors (58%) reported witnessing abuse, and more survivors of “other” races (50%) reported experiencing actual abuse. Fewer Hispanic survivors than survivors of all other races, reported witnessing (30%) or experiencing (23%) child abuse. See Figure 9.

Of 322 victims abused as a child, 304 specified the type of abuse experienced. Of these, 68% (208) experienced physical abuse, 68% (206) emotional abuse, and 50% (153) sexual abuse as a child. One-quarter (26% or 80) of victims experienced all three types of abuse. One-third (31% or 95) experienced physical and sexual abuse; one-half (52% or 158) experienced physical and emotional abuse; and one-third (30% or 90) experienced sexual and emotional abuse.

2. Parental substance abuse and mental illness

Nine percent (103) of domestic violence survivors reported growing up with a parent with a substance abuse problem. Five percent (55) of domestic violence survivors reported growing up with a parent with a mental illness.

Domestic violence survivors with a parent with mental illness, than survivors with a parent without mental illness, were 8 times more likely to also have a parent with a substance abuse problem: over half (58%) of survivors with a parent with mental illness compared to 7% of survivors with a parent without mental illness, reported having a parent with a substance abuse problem.

3. Child/Abuser relationship

Of 322 victims abused as children, 232 reported the relationship to their abuser. Of these, 84% (195) were abused by a family member, 25% (58) by a non-family member, and 3% (8) by a stranger. One survivor (.04%) was abused by a family member, non-family member, and a stranger; 24 (10%) were abused by both a family member and non-family member. Three survivors (1%) were abused by a family member and a stranger; and 3 (1%) were abused by a non-family member and a stranger.

Among survivors who experienced child abuse, there was a slight difference in the victim/abuser relationship and the likelihood to have suicide thoughts and attempt suicide. One-third (30%) of survivors abused as children by a family member thought about suicide and 21% attempted suicide. Similarly 28% of survivors abused as children by a non-family member thought about suicide and 17% attempted suicide.

4. In Shelter as A Child

One percent (16) of domestic violence survivors reported being in a domestic violence shelter as a child. As this number is so few, it cannot validly be examined by other factors.

B. Survivor Risk Factors

1. Survivor Substance Abuse and Mental Illness

Overall, six percent (69) of domestic violence survivors were told they have a substance abuse problem. Six percent (63) of female survivors and eight percent (6) of male survivors reported being told they have a substance abuse problem.

Thirteen percent of survivors were told they have a mental illness. In this analysis with few (75) male survivors, slightly more males (15%) than females (13%) were told they had a mental illness.

When survivor substance abuse and mental illness were examined by race/ethnicity, more survivors of “other” races, reported mental illness (35%) and having a substance abuse problem (25%) than survivors of all other races/ethnicities. See Figure 10. As there are relatively few survivors of “other” races (20) and Black survivors (24), these findings should be viewed with caution.

Survivors abused as a child (12%) were three times more likely than survivors who did not experience child abuse (4%), to be told they have a substance abuse problem.

Survivors abused as a child (26%) were four times (3.7) more likely than survivors who did not experience child abuse (7%), to be told they have a mental illness.

Survivors told they have a mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without mental illness to have a substance abuse problem: Of 142 survivors told they have a mental illness, 28 (20%) were also told they have a substance abuse problem. Of 959 survivors not told they have a mental illness, 41 (4%) have been told they have a substance abuse problem.

Five percent of survivors reported having a parent with a mental illness. However, survivors who were told they have a mental illness were 12.5 times more likely (25%) to have a parent with mental illness, than survivors without mental illness (2%).

2. Suicide Ideology and Attempts

Overall, 15% (168) of domestic violence survivors thought about suicide, and 9% (98) reported at least one suicide attempt. When examined by gender, more female survivors, 16% (162), than male survivors, 7% (5) reported thinking about suicide; and more female survivors, 9% (96), than male survivors, 3% (2) reported at least one suicide attempt.

When suicide ideology and attempts were examined by race/ethnicity, slightly more survivors (25%) of “other” races thought about and attempted (15%) suicide than all other races/ethnicities. See Figure 11. As there are relatively few survivors of “other” races (20) and Black survivors (24), these findings should be viewed with caution.

Those abused as a child were three times more likely than those not abused to report thinking about suicide: of 322 victims abused as children, 30% (96) reported that they thought about suicide. Of 779 not abused as children, 9% (72) thought about suicide. Those abused as children were four times more likely (19%) than those not abused (5%) to attempt suicide.

Figure 11. Percent Domestic Violence Survivors That Thought About and/or Attempted Suicide, by Race/Ethnicity, 2012

Survivors who experienced emotional abuse, alone or in combination with physical and/or sexual abuse were more likely to attempt suicide than those who did not experience emotional abuse. While more survivors who suffered sexual abuse thought about suicide (among survivors who reported only one type of abuse), slightly more survivors who reported experiencing emotional abuse (24%) attempted suicide, than those who reported sexual abuse (21%), or physical abuse (11%). See Figure 12.

Figure 12. Percent Domestic Violence Survivors Who Reported Experiencing One Type of Child Abuse and Thinking About or Attempting Suicide, 2012

Similarly, more survivors who suffered a combination of abuses which included emotional abuse, thought about and attempted suicide than survivors of physical and sexual abuse. See Figure 13.

Domestic violence survivors with a parent with mental illness were six times (42%) more likely to have attempted suicide, then survivors with a parent without mental illness (7%).

D. Adult Domestic Violence Experiences

1. Prior Adult Domestic Violence Experience

Over half (57%, 628) of survivors reported having a prior domestic violence experience as an adult. Of these, three-quarters (72% or 455) were involved in a prior domestic violence experience with the same offender, 21% with a different offender, and 11% (68) with both the same offender and a different offender.

2. Prior In-Shelter Experience

Sixteen percent of survivors reported being in shelter before as an adult. Of these 179 victims in shelter before as an adult, 163 reported the number of times. Over one-third (39%) were in shelter two or more times.

Among race/ethnicities with a minimum of 20 survivors, “other” races comprised the race/ethnicity with the greatest proportion of survivors (40%) who reported being in shelter before as an adult, followed by Black survivors (25%), Native American survivors (22%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (16%), and Hispanic survivors (14%). See Figure 14.

It requires further study with a greater number of survivors, but being in domestic violence shelter as a child may be a good predictor of being in domestic violence shelter as an adult. Those in this analysis who were in a domestic violence shelter as a child were four (3.9) times more likely than those not sheltered as a child, to be in a domestic violence shelter as an adult: of 16 victims in shelter as a child, 62.5% (10) were in shelter also as an adult; of 1085 victims not in shelter as a child, 16% (169) were in shelter as an adult. As stated, these findings on the relationship between being in shelter as a child and being in shelter as an adult should be viewed with caution as they are based on only 16 survivors in this analysis.

3. Survivor/Abuser Relationship

Current or former intimate partners were the abuser in 84% of the survivor domestic violence cases. Current or former boyfriends comprised the relationship with the greatest proportion of abusers (45%), followed by current and former spouses (33%). Ex-girlfriends and girlfriends comprised 6% of abusers, and family members comprised 9%.

Females (86%) were more likely to be abused by an intimate partner than males (70%). Males (20%) were significantly more likely to be abused by a family member than females (9%).

While an equal proportion of survivors lived with their abuser as did not live with their abuser (50%), significantly more female survivors (52%) than male survivors (37%) lived with their abuser.

When examined by income, those survivors who live with their abuser reported an annual median income of $2400 less ($9,600) than those who do not live with their abuser ($12,000).

4. Domestic Violence Incidents Involving Survivor Substance Abuse

Twelve percent (137) of domestic violence survivors reported using alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident.

Survivors reported that abusers used alcohol/drugs in four times (53%) as many domestic violence incidents as incidents where survivors used alcohol/drugs (12%). Survivors who used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident were two (1.8) times more likely (84%) than survivors who did not use alcohol/drugs (48%) to be involved in an incident where their abuser used alcohol/drugs.

Survivors reported that the abuser used alcohol/drugs significantly more in domestic violence incidents with female victims (54%), than male victims (45%).

Domestic violence survivors who were told they have a substance abuse problem, were five times (4.8) more likely to have used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident (48%) than survivors without a substance abuse problem (10%).

Domestic violence survivors told they have a mental illness, were twice as likely to have used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident (22%), than survivors without a mental illness (11%).

5. Type of Abuse/Violence Experienced from The Abuser

Survivors abused as children are six times more likely to experience abuse in an adult domestic violence incident, than survivors who were not abused as children: of 978 survivors who reported abuse in a recent or past domestic violence incident, 32% (316) reported experiencing child abuse; of 123 survivors who reported no abuse in a past or recent incident, 5% (6) reported experiencing child abuse.

In all, there were 978 (89%) survivors who reported recent or past abuse as an adult by an intimate partner.

There were 935 survivors (85%) who reported abuse from their offender in the most recent domestic violence incident. Of these, most (87%) reported verbal abuse, followed by physical attack (60%), being threatened to be harmed or killed (34%), and physical restraint (29%). One-quarter (27%) were either held hostage (14%) or prevented from calling for help (13%). A lethal weapon was used in 12% of cases, and strangulation was involved in 11% of cases. Similarly, 11% of survivors reported being sexually abused/coerced, as well.

There were 820 survivors who reported being abused by an intimate partner in the past. Similar to the proportion of victims who reported abuse in the most recent incident, most victims who experienced past abuse from an intimate partner were verbally assaulted/degraded (83%), physically attacked (62%), or threatened (33%). Seventeen percent of those abused by an intimate partner in the past were sexually coerced, 15% respectively, were held hostage and threatened with a lethal weapon, and 14% respectively, were strangled and prevented from calling for help.

Of the 820 survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner in the past, 807 (98%) reported abuse in the most recent domestic violence incident. Overall, there were 978 victims who reported abuse in a past or recent incident. Of these, 136 (14%) reported they or a partner were pregnant during the abuse.

6. Injury

One-quarter (27%) of survivors reported being injured in a recent or past domestic violence incident. Females were almost three (2.6) times more likely (29%) than males (11%) to report being injured during a domestic violence incident.

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, Native Americans (56%) reported the most survivors who incurred injury from a domestic violence incident, followed by Black survivors (42%), survivors of "other" races (40%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (26%), and Hispanic survivors (23%).

Survivors who ever experienced abuse from an intimate partner while they or their partner were pregnant, were two times (2.2) more likely to report having been injured in a domestic violence incident (52%), than survivors who reported they or their partner did not experience abuse while pregnant (24%).

Involvement in a domestic violence incident as an adult increases one's likelihood of injury in a subsequent domestic violence incident: three-quarters (77%) of those survivors who reported being injured in a domestic violence incident, reported being involved in a prior adult domestic violence experience.

Survivors who have been told they have a substance abuse problem, were almost two times (1.8) more likely to report being injured in a domestic violence incident (46%) than those who do not have a substance abuse problem (26%).

Survivors who have been told they have a mental illness, were almost two times (1.7) more likely to report being injured in a domestic violence incident (42%) than those who do not have a mental illness (25%).

7. Medical Treatment

Of the 302 survivors who were injured, 44% (132) required medical treatment.

Over all, the rate of seeking medical treatment among injured survivors who required it, was quite high. Of the 132 injured survivors who required medical treatment, 83% (110) sought treatment.

Slightly more (87%) survivors with a substance abuse problem who needed treatment, sought treatment. Similarly, slightly more (84%) survivors with a mental illness who required treatment, sought treatment.

As mentioned earlier, female survivors were three times (29%) more likely to report being injured during a domestic violence incident than male survivors (11%). Of 294 female victims who were injured in a domestic violence incident, 129 (44%) required medical treatment. Of the 129 female survivors who required medical treatment, 85% (109) sought medical treatment.

A valid analysis on the proportion of males who required treatment and sought it was not possible in this dataset: of 75 male survivors, eight reported being injured during a domestic violence incident and only one required treatment, but did not get it.

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, Black survivors and "other" races (50%, respectively) reported the most survivors who required medical treatment, followed by Native American and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (45%, respectively), and Hispanic survivors (41%).

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, all (100%, respectively) Black survivors and "other" race survivors who required medical treatment, sought medical treatment. However, the number of survivors from these racial groups is very few so these findings should be viewed with caution. Ninety percent of White (non-Hispanic) survivors who required medical treatment sought it, followed by 82% of Native American survivors, and 81% of Hispanic survivors.

8. Children present

Three-quarters (77% or 836) of survivors reported having children. When examined by gender, three-quarters (77%) of female survivors and 69% of male survivors have children.

Most survivors (29%) have two children. The mean number of children per survivor is 2.7. Male survivors had a slightly higher mean number of children (2.9) compared to females (2.7). Among races/ethnicities represented by 20 or more survivors, Native American survivors had the highest mean number of children (2.9), followed by Hispanic survivors (2.8), and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (2.5).

Of 841 survivors with children, 47% (398) reported that their children were present during the most recent domestic violence incident; and 40.5% (341) during a past domestic violence incident.

Survivors reported children present in a greater proportion of domestic violence incidents where the survivor lived with their abuser (53%), than incidents where survivors did not live with their abuser (41%).

There was a negligible difference in annual median income between survivors with children present during a domestic violence incident ($12,000) and survivors where children were not present ($10,872).

9. Children Abused

Of 841 children present at domestic violence incidents, 20% (167) were abused by the survivor's abuser. Most children were verbally abused/degraded (69%), physically attacked (32%), threatened that they or loved ones would be harmed or killed (20%), or physically restrained (17%). Seventeen percent of children were either held hostage (10%) or prevented from calling for help (7%). Eight percent of children were sexually abused, 6% threatened with a lethal weapon, 5% strangled, and 4% threatened that their pets would be harmed or killed.

10. Children Injured

Of 167 children present and abused in a domestic violence incident, 7% (12) were injured. Of 12 children injured, 3 (25%) required medical treatment. Of three children who required medical treatment, one obtained medical treatment.

11. Law Enforcement and Prosecution Involvement

Sixty percent of survivors reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement. Slightly more (64%) male survivors reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement than female survivors (60%).

Slightly more survivors with children (61%) than survivors without children (56%) reported their domestic violence incident to law enforcement. There was negligible difference in a survivor's likelihood of reporting to law enforcement by their number of children, as those survivors who reported to law enforcement had an average 2.7 children and those who did not report had an average 2.8 children.

When examined by race/ethnicity, among races/ethnicities with 20 or more survivors, there were negligible differences in the proportion who reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement. Slightly more Black and Native American survivors (67%, respectively) reported their incident to law enforcement, followed closely by survivors of “other” races (65%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (61%) and Hispanic survivors (60%).

Of the 40% of survivors who never reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement, only 38 reported the reason they never reported. The greatest number of survivors stated that they did not report because they were scared (19), followed by those who did not report because they believed that nothing would get done (6), and because they wanted to work out the relationship (5). See Table B.

Table B. Why Survivors Never Reported a Domestic Violence Incident to Law Enforcement

Reason	Total
Scared	19

One-quarter (26%) of survivors reported that they had been stalked by the abuser in a recent or past domestic violence incident. Of these 285 stalking survivors, 21% (60) reported the stalking to law enforcement.

When stalking was examined by race/ethnicity, a greater proportion of Black survivors (58%) were stalked by their abuser, followed by survivors of “other” races (40%), Native American survivors (39%), Hispanic survivors (24%) and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (23%).

Half (49%) of domestic violence survivors obtained a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident. Males (81%) were almost two times (1.8) more likely than females (46%) to obtain a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident.

Of the 628 survivors involved in a prior domestic violence incident as an adult, 20% (125) obtained an order of protection. With regard to prior domestic violence events, more females (20%) than males (12%) reported obtaining a protection order.

Of the 628 survivors who had a prior domestic violence incident, 12% (77) pressed charges. More female survivors (13%) pressed charges for a prior domestic violence incident than male survivors (3%). The number of survivors who pressed charges was too few to do a valid analysis by gender, race, or income.

12. Case Dispositions and Sentencing

Of 77 survivors who pressed charges, the case dispositions were reported for 43. Of these cases, 58% obtained a conviction (51% prosecuted and found guilty, and 7% pled to a lesser charge), 30% of cases were dismissed, 5% of cases were acquitted, and in 7% of cases the offender was given a diversion program.

Of the 25 survivors who pressed charges and obtained a conviction, 23 (92%) received a sentence that included jail time. The case sentencing was reported in 14 of these cases. Over half (56%, 8) were sentenced to 3 months or less, 14% (2) were sentenced to 6 months, 21% (3) were sentenced 15-18 months, and 7% (1) to two years. The mean jail sentence was 7.2 months.

13. Leave/Stay History

Almost two-thirds (60% or 656) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32% or 212) reported that they returned.

Of 212 survivors who returned to their abuser, 101 reported why they returned. Most mentions for returning to their abuser include: returned to try to work it out (63), returned for the children (27), and returned because they were scared (15). See Table C.

Table C. Why Survivors Returned to a Violent Relationship They Left

He has complete control over me (financially, physically and mentally)	1
I was dumb/stupid	1
Don't know why I returned	2

When examined by survivor income, there was negligible difference in the annual median income of survivors who left a violent relationship at some time ($11,000) and those who did not leave ($10,872). Conversely, there was a greater difference in the median income of those who left and stayed away and those who left and returned: survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920).

Of the 628 survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% (268) reported that they live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence incident.

When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income $2400 less ($9,600) than survivors who do not live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

14. How Domestic Violence Survivors Hear About Service Providers

Of 969 survivors who reported how they heard about the domestic violence service provider agency, most (23%) were referred by law enforcement or were self/voluntary referred (20%). Twelve percent of survivors had used a service provider before, 9% were referred by a friend, 6% by a relative, and 5% by the adult court system. See Table D.
